ABOUT ME

My journey in interior design began after completing my B.A. in English Literature, followed by a diploma in Interior Design. Although my initial learning introduced me to the basic concepts of design, joining the B.Sc. Interior Design programme gave me a much broader understanding of the field.

Throughout my degree, I had the opportunity to learn through site visits, design projects, and hands-on training in software such as AutoCAD, SketchUp, D5 Render, and Lumion. These experiences helped me gradually improve my design skills, develop a better understanding of spaces, and gain confidence in translating ideas into designs.

My internship at Aurora Design Studio further strengthened this learning experience. Working on real projects, attending site visits, and understanding the practical aspects of design helped me apply what I had learned during my academic journey more effectively. It also gave me valuable insights into the professional working environment and motivated me to continue learning and improving.

Looking back, each stage of this journey has contributed to my growth as an aspiring interior designer, and I look forward to gaining more experience, developing my skills further, and exploring new possibilities in the field.
